x Department of Recreitin, Adventure, and Wellness Campsecreation campserve children/youth aged 5 years and older in day camp programs that offer both active indoor and outdoor pursuits The climbing program provides instruction for youth 818 and introduces them to rocklimbing skills, techniques, and movementhe Nanook Adventure Camp serves hildren aged 79 with week-long camps on the Fairbanks campus that give each camper experience in climbing, hiking, and cand into natural surroundings in the Fairbanks area.

x R

Many of UAF's K2 programs were begun years ago, and programs may have been launched independently by one art of UAF without coordination with other parts of the university. UAF does not have an overarching strategy for its K2 programming nor a consistent method for evaluating outcomes. UAF does not, in fact, even have a centralize drintorry of its K12 programs. As budgets become tighter, funds should be prioritized for the most needed or effective services. For these reasons, I believe Special Program Review of X Bridging Programs ould be helpful for future planning purposes

Special Program Reviewcope

Analysis

x What specific K12 outreach/bridging

Recommendations

- x Please dentify ways in which 1/12 activities may be most likely to increase enueand decrease costs
- x Please make r